

2015

Studying, Students, and Space

ANT130 Students

Follow this and additional works at: http://scholarworks.smith.edu/scl_neilson

Part of the Anthropology Commons

Recommended Citation

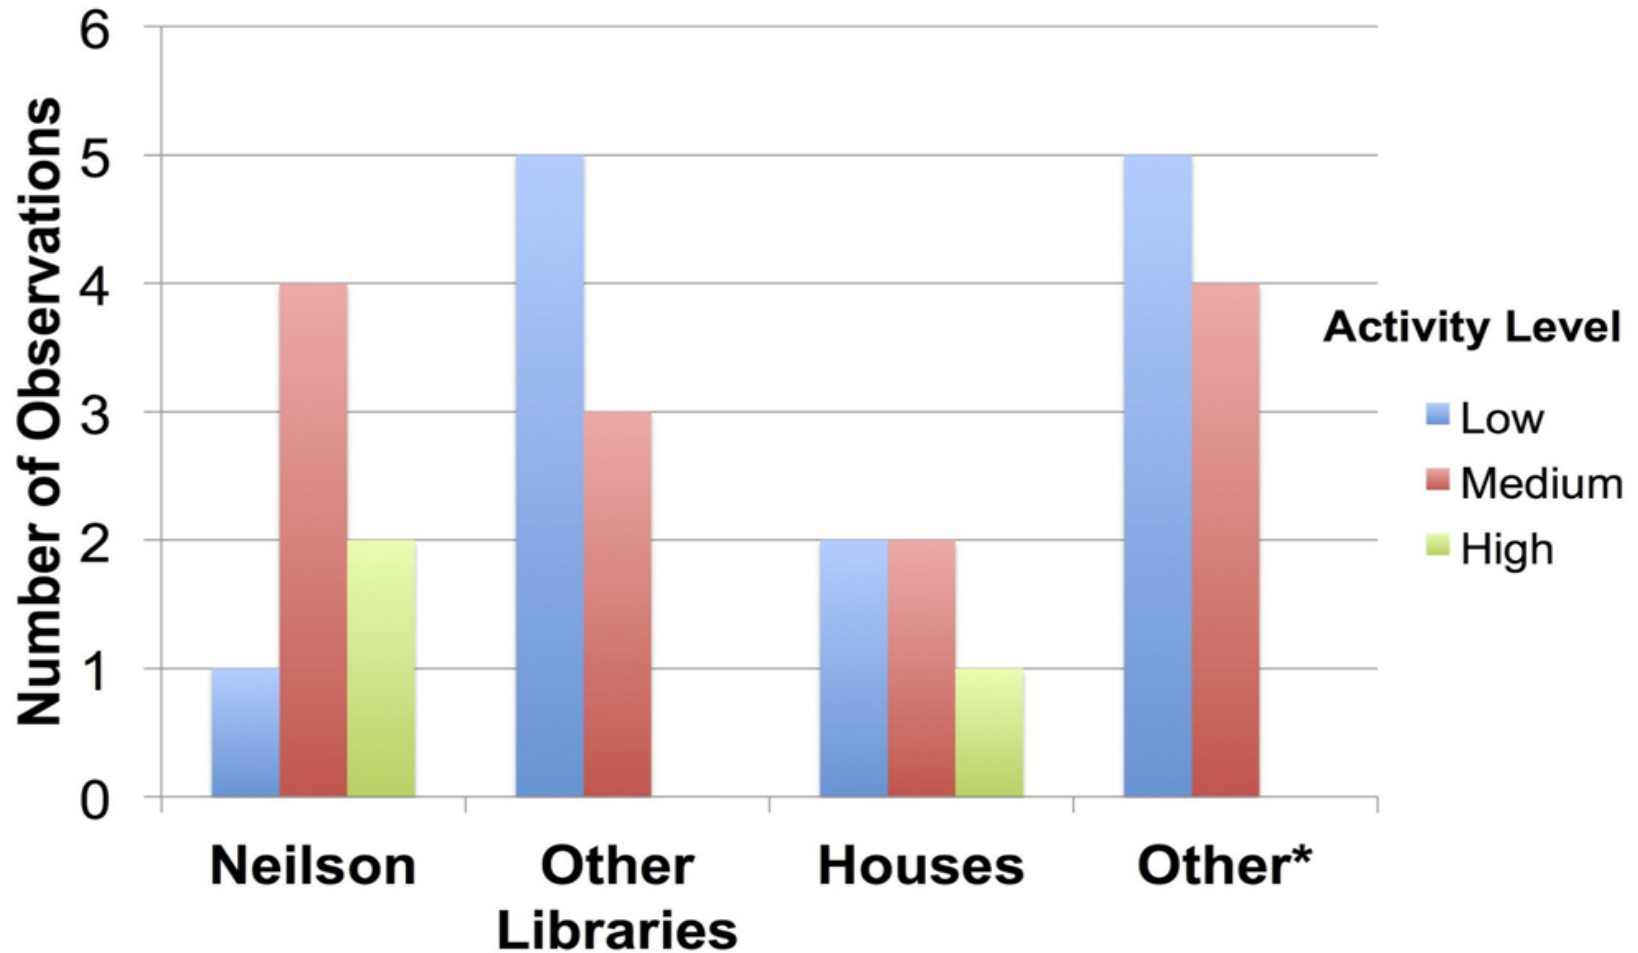

Students of ANT130. "Studying, Students, and Space." Smith College Scholarworks. http://scholarworks.smith.edu/scl_neilson/

This Article has been accepted for inclusion in The New Neilson Library by an authorized administrator of Smith ScholarWorks. For more information, please contact elanzi@smith.edu.

Studying, Students, and Space

Findings from observations and interviews by Anthropology majors and students of Introduction to Cultural Anthropology
Fall 2015

Popularity in Study Location (n=42)

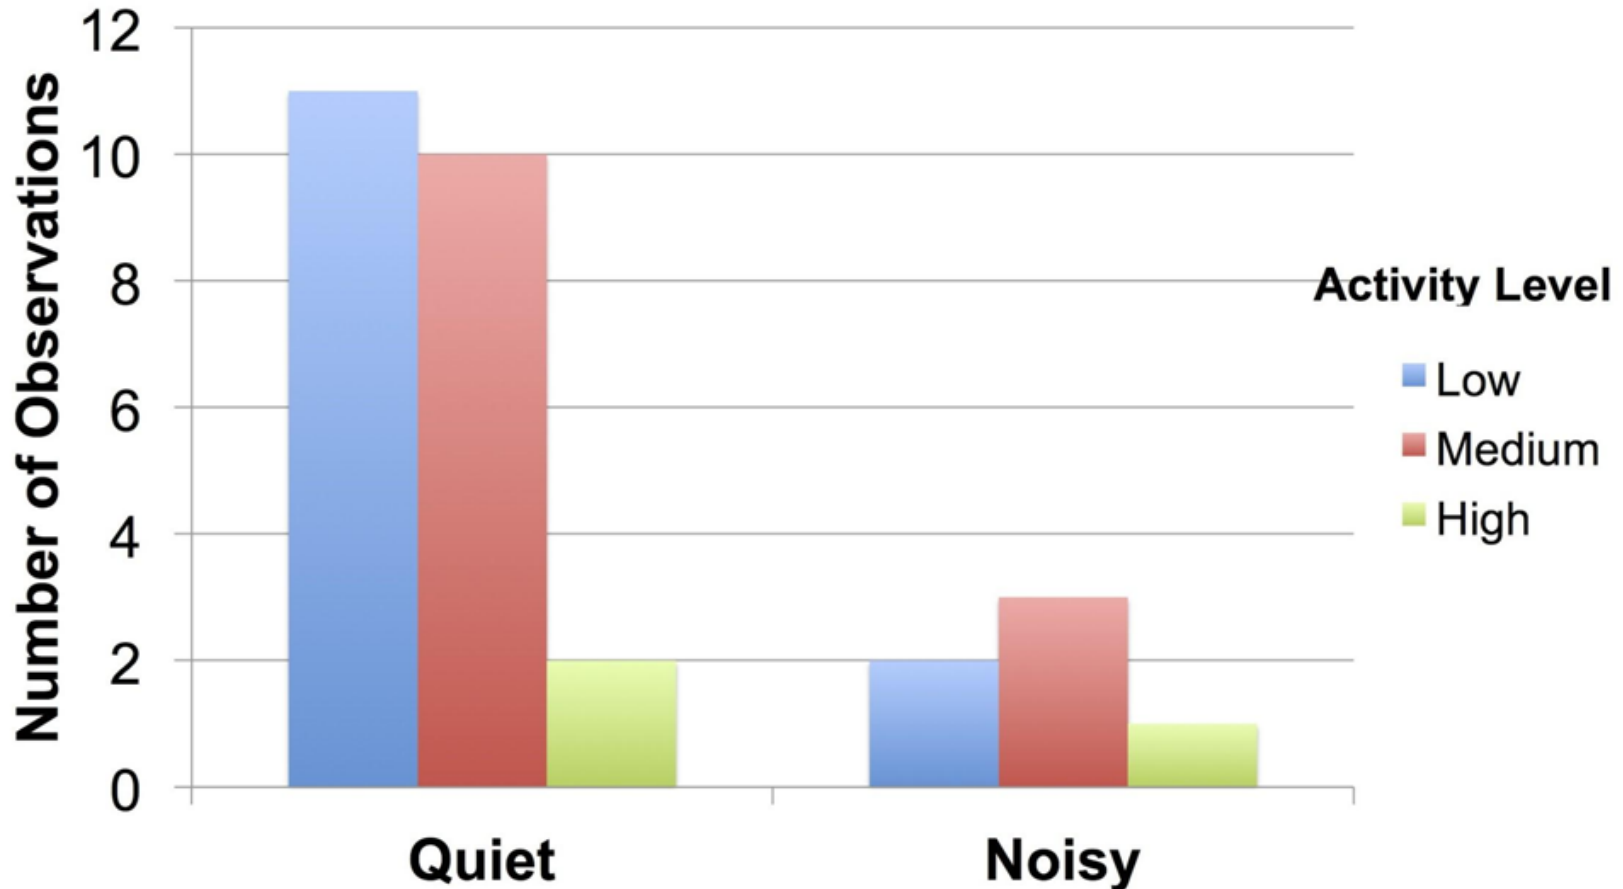

*Ford Hall, Campus Center, Campus Center Cafe, and College Archives

“Best things about Hillyer: quiet, organized, accessible, lots of space...is a ‘hidden gem.’”

“Neilson is a little sad and gloomy.”

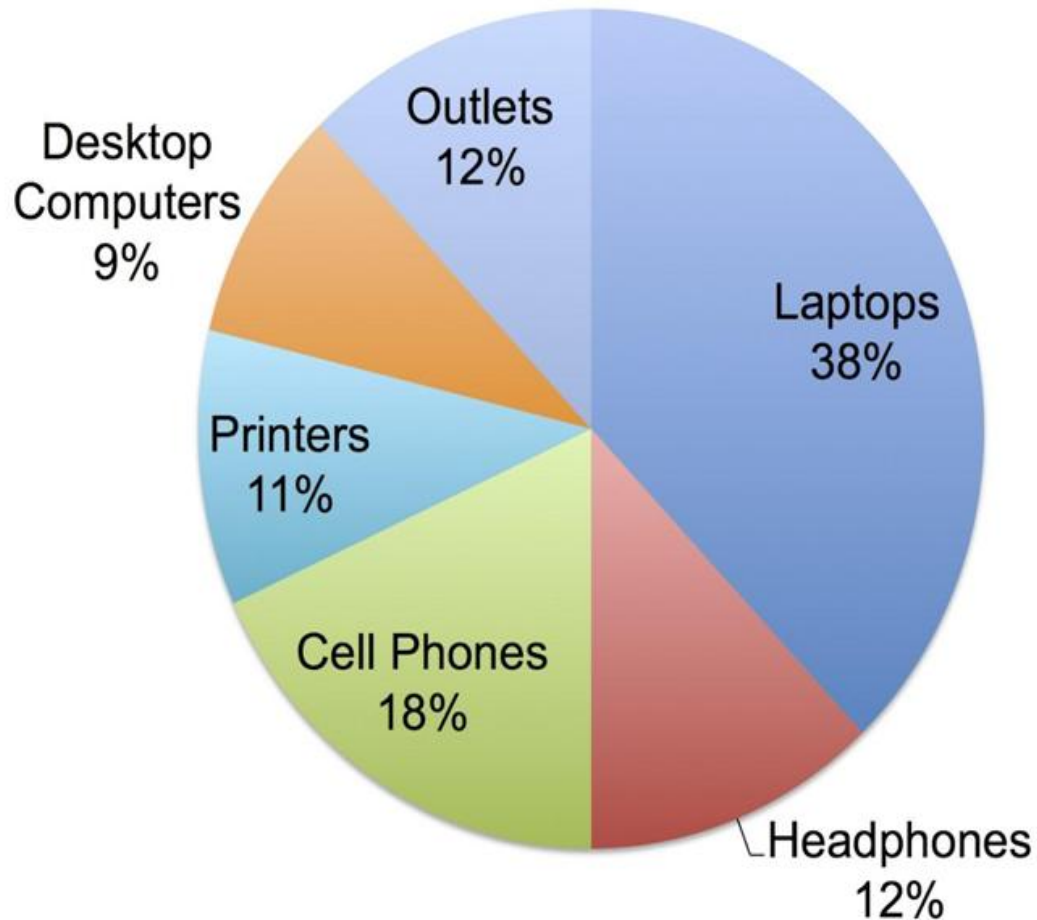

Popularity in Noisy vs. Quiet (n=42)

“Individual study, except for computer science because the room can get pretty loud and participant needs full attention.”

“More quiet study.”

Technology Use

“A lot of the times public computers are not occupied, but at the same time, some Smith students are unable to find a public computer to work...would like more public computers dedicated to the use of Smith students.”